Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-14, 18, and 23-25 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

In considering claim 1, claim 1 is allowed for the reasons set forth in Applicant's remarks filed on May 19, 2005. Notably, the claims require the use of a selected translation formula to convert a received sub-domain portion of a name associated with a domain name into a different sub-domain that uses the same native character set, and then generating a request for the domain name using the converted sub-domain. While it is generally known to select formulas to translate domain names into a different character set (as discussed in U.S. Patent No. 6,738,827) and it is also generally known to translate domain names into IP addresses or into pre-set re-direct domain names, Examiner was unable to find any art disclosing selecting translation formulas to translate sub-domains of domain names within the same native character set, as claimed. The closest art is perhaps the Balkin reference describing AltaVista's translation site, which describes selecting a translation formula (i.e. English-to-French), and then appending native language characters to the entire domain name to create a different domain name for use in accessing Web pages. However, AltaVista's translation site does not convert the sub-domain portion of the received name into another sub-domain portion according to the translation formula to generate a request for the domain name, as claimed.

For these reasons, claims 1 is allowed.

Claim 18 contains the same limitations as claim 1 and is allowed for the same reasons.

Claims 12 and 25 are allowed for the reasons set forth in the Office action sent on November 19, 2004.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
